Math

Kurt has finished working through Saxon 2 this year. He has learned how to add and subtract multiple numbers , as well as, add numbers with carrying(re-grouping). He has also moved into multiplying single digit numbers. Kurt loves to learn about different shapes and thoroughly enjoys measuring different objects. Kurt has a great ability to see objects and shapes in different ways. He is great at identifying 3 dimensional figures and can draw them as well. Kurt is still working on mastering his math facts. He needs to work on being able to do them a little faster. He can get distracted easily and then loose his focus on working through them. Math is a subject he does enjoy.

Science

Kurt enjoys the science he does at school and does well retaining general concepts. He is able to narrate back to me with some detail the things he has learned in class.

History

Kurt has learned much through History this year. His favorite subject was learning about the Knights and the Samurai. He is now able to identify different continents, as well as, different countries around the world through his History studies. Kurt does much better at remembering things in History if he does an activity with the reading, yet this trimester he has improved his ability to remember events. Specific details are still difficult for him to remember. It is helpful for him to be asked a specific question from the reading before we read to keep his attention during the reading and to stop frequently and recap what was just read.

Language Arts

Kurt began this year only writing 1-2 sentences, but now has the ability to write a paragraph (5 sentences). He still needs help in forming his paragraph so it flows together and makes sense, but he has begun to get the idea of the structure of a paragraph. He does well with his punctuation in his sentences (capitalizing proper nouns, capitalizing first words, and putting his periods in). Kurt is a creative thinker and will continue to grow well in his creative writing. He likes to write and get his creative thoughts on paper. Kurt still needs help in remembering many of the grammar rules, due to a lack of being able to completely focus. He can easily forget, but does remember when we review.

Fine Arts

Kurt has participated in a Musical Theater class this trimester. He is not one that loves being up in front of others. He enjoys more of being behind the scenes, but he did a wonderful job at being a lost boy and a pirate in there end of the year play of Peter Pan. He was able to remember his scenes very well and did not seem nervous at all. Kurt is also learning to play percussion. He loves the beats in songs and can easily find the right rhythm. He has not learned to read much of the music yet. He plays on the conga while listening to different music.

Physical Education

This is a challenging area for Kurt. He does not easily jump in on a chance for physical exercise. He did, however, play soccer consistently throughout the trimester and go bike riding quite often. He needs to be encouraged in this area. He has chosen to play quite a bit of sports over the summer, which is very encouraging.

Spelling/Handwriting

Kurt has grown quite a bit in his ability to spell. He is mastering many of those sight words (the, because, why, when, were, of, very), as well as, his phonetic words. Because he enjoys writing, this has helped him in mastering many of these commonly used words. Kurt's handwriting is very neat. He is left-handed and is very careful when he writes. He is very articulate too.

Electives

Kurt has been studying the bible over this last trimester. Particularly the book of John. He has learned much history during bible times and has studied the different locations and cultures of that times period.

Kurt has also been learning Korean and has learned much about the Korean culture over these last 5 months due to us having two Korean exchange students living with us.

Kurt also took an art class this trimester. He learned how to make pottery and tie-dyed shirts. He loves any type of art!
